Paid for by: a marvelous collection of mental hospital escapees, engineers, and the odd english major.

KGB PRESENTS readME

Conspiracy: Free Theory: $3

> the issue in which readme tries to calculate the lowest possible finals grade they need to pass

VOL II, ISSUE VII, 12/4/2024

Editor-in-Chief: Eshaan Joshi

All the news unfit to print

cmureadme.com

STUDENT GIVES 75 CLASSMATES AIVS

"Tyan Rosh" Swears this isn't an AIDS joke

On Tuesday, November 26th, during a midterm for 18-122 (Principles of Slightly Different Computing), a record of 75 students were given academic integrity violations within a 32 minute span. While their alleged offenses varied widely in scale and execution, they all constituted some form of unauthorized aid, traced back to a single student who passed the course with a C last semester. Most significantly, none of the students involved showed any desire to receive assistance on the midterm.

The aid arrived in many different forms. Some thirty students received copies of Tuesday's midterm in their CMU Gmail inbox the night before, with personalized notes. Others were given assistance during the test itself: the student providing aid was caught no less than 13 times staring directly at a terrified student in the lecture hall, aggressively blinking in morse code. Several more students entered the test with detailed course notes written on their hands or arms, which they consistently denied writing themselves. "I just woke up with this written on me," one concerned AIV recipient stated.

With over 90% of the class having received unauthorized and undesired assistance, just 9 students remain. They report a frightening atmosphere both in and out of the class, due to an ever-present threat of unwanted help with their coursework. One student reported changing her route to her apartment, after a masked figure jumped out of the shadows and began reciting homework answers. Another classmate returned to Michigan over the break to find his bedroom window shattered, the culprit being a brick with a note tied to it containing a printed copy of the upcoming final.

Andrew Carnegie Andrew Mellon Richard B Mellon xLREAL CLASSES "Charming" - NY Times 'Beautiful' - Entertainment Weekly HAVE CURVES "HELP ME" - A 33142 Student There is more to grading than meets the eye. CMU FILMS

Where to buy adderall on campus

This issue of readme is brought to you by:

Editors: Eshaan Joshi, Tali Kirschenbaum, Daniel Yin Problem Solvers: Kevin Song, Kevin Klucznik, Journalists: Kanya Dogan, Isabelle Florence, "Tyan Rosh", Gilgamesh Ichthyomorphosis, Alex Werth, Save-a-tree Bhat, Archibald The Great, Mihir Deshpande, Rhodes N. Spectre Artists: Kevin Song, Benner Rogers, "Tyan Rosh",

Rhodes N. Spectre

Tech Team: Wade Cheng, Danya Kogan

Bored? Single? Looking for love at Carnegie Mellon? Forget that, come write satire for readme! No experience required or requested. We're always looking for clowns, funny guys, smart-alecks, layout artists, and minorities to keep us DEI compliant

We're looking for you and your skills, or lack thereof, Saturdays at 5 in DH1117

SCOTTY DOG TO RACE AT 2024 CARNIVAL

Save-a-tree Bhat Air Bud's Attorney

The Carnegie Association of Networking and Involvement in Necessary Expenditures is proud to announce that their 2024 buggy driver will be none other than our beloved mascot, Scotty the Scotty dog. Readme spoke with a member of the Carnegie Association of Networking and Involvement in Necessary Expenditures, who chose to remain anonymous for official Association purposes (and not because this reporter forgot to take their name). The spokesman was quick to clarify, "This endeavour is completely legal. There is no rule prohibiting a Scotty dog from driving a buggy."

In response to criticism that a dog driving a buggy was too far-fetched, the Association stated, "We were told it was impawsible for a dog to win buggy, but the Carnegie Association of Networking and Involvement in Necessary Expenditures doesn't back down when it gets ruff." In unrelated news, the Carnegie Association of Networking and Involvement in Necessary Expenditures has submitted a formal request for peanut butter and bacon treats at Carnival.

CMU often has a shortage of small Asian women around Carnival time, so to the Carnegie Association of Networking and Involvement in Necessary Expenditures, it seemed natural to try something new. Readme attempted to look into past entries of other animals in buggy competitions, but was quickly informed we were barking up the wrong tree.

Many Readme readers may be curious about the design of the buggy. Unconfirmed reports suggest the buggy may be painted in the style of Pittsburgh's own Andy Warhowl.

No matter the outcome of the race, rest assured that Scotty will go down in buggy history as a "good boy." Spectators are welcome to come cheer him on in the cutest race in CMU history.

Dying CMU students will now take "Finals"

"Tyan Rosh" Crushed by the finality of death

On Friday, Warner Hall announced a policy of "Finals" (with a capital "F"), much to the confusion of the student body. While the specifics of the plan have yet to be shared, administration has made concepts of it clear: all CMU students who die during the fall and spring semesters will be subject to "Finals" recapping the sum of their human experience.

The content of the Finals was initially unclear, but Gina Casalegno, Vice President of Student Life and Student Death, was quick to provide a syllabus for a 0-unit course, "Mortality" (with codes including 00-100 for first-years and 00-800 for graduate students), which all CMU students will be enrolled in. Specific questions likely to be asked include "Are you proud of who you became?" and "Did fear and regret shape your perception of what you could accomplish?"

Catching students in their final moments to take a lengthy exam may prove difficult, however. This morning, large nets were unfurled beneath bridges near campus to roll students into a testing facility, which will return them to their original trajectory once grades are posted. Cars on campus have been limited to 5 miles per hour, and large "man catcher" buckets have been installed on their grills to catch students who would have been killed, such that they may turn in their Final before being battered to death in a controlled environment similar to Forbes Avenue.

CMU's goals are unclear, but our investigative journalists were able to conclude through cat burglary that an institutional objective for the 2025 calendar year is to "instill an awareness of mortality and the finality of death into our students, staff, and faculty."

CRYPTID CORNER

PRESENTED BY: ISABELLE FLORENCE

THE INVISIBLE HOMOSEXUAL

I know no one will believe me, but a completely invisible, incorporeal gay man has been watching me. I'm aware that there is no way to prove this, but I can feel him judging me in the way that only a gay man (or maybe he/they?) can. I'll be walking towards the Schatz Dining Room when I hear his bitchy voice in my head saying "Praying it's the salad bar, queen." I've asked a question during lecture only to look down to see the word "flop" scratched into my desk. Is this a symptom of some kind of schizophrenia? Probably. Is there a mean twink silently hating on my outfit? Definitely.

It isn't explicitly the fact that he's gay that's bugging me. I'd take issue with being judged by any kind of invisible person. It's just an observation that he has certain tendencies/mannerisms, not that there's anything wrong with that. There's just no good way to present all the evidence without acknowledging it. I would like to be clear that I do not in any way condone homophobia, however

CivE department apologizes for increase in campus construction

Rhodes N. Spectre Construction Worker

Earlier this week, the department of Civil and Environmental Engineering issued a statement addressing the sudden increase in construction around CMU's campus. This made many spaces unusable and caused significant traffic delays as 5th Ave and Forbes Ave have had closures. In the statement, the head of undergraduate and graduate studies for the department cite the practicum portion of this year's finals as being primarily responsible for the inconveniences, saying that "The inconveniences are deeply regrettable especially since they have come at a time of heightened scrutiny due to a cost and time overrun in the renovation of Wean Hall proposed during last year's senior capstone. We apologize for the effect the current delays are having on the current student body and we are doing everything we can to expedite the projects, including efforts to integrate AI into the project management systems and outsourcing additional labor from illegal immigrants being bused in from El Paso."

Students affected by the delays report the biggest issues at hand remain the recurring delays of the 61 and 71 bus routes that have been affected by lane closures, fearing delays of up to 10 minutes, 24 seconds and 35 milliseconds and causing large queues and congestion at bus stops. It is a well known struggle that many students are unable to walk between campus and off campus housing due to high concentrations of plants belonging to the family Poaceae, Cyperaceae, and Juncaceae, often colloquially referred to as "grass." Additionally, many students left stranded at these overcrowded bus stations share concerns that they may be vulnerable to women by traveling in smaller groups, though it has been over 50 years since the last reported incident of a woman being spotted near campus.

Hamerschlag House continues to undergo renovations to install the planned seating area and overhang. When asked about their thoughts, students responded overwhelmingly with "Isn't that the ECE building?" The shortage of housing for students continues to plague the upperclassmen with increasing rent and competition for on campus housing, leading many students to rent out unused beds when pulling all-nighters, or even challenge people to gladiatorial combat for the rights to common room spaces.

While the CEE finals are expected to continue for another two weeks, undergraduate students that have already completed their finals are being redirected to aid the graduate student projects in an attempt to shift the completion dates forward for fall 2024 and proactively begin plans for the spring 2025 finals. The CEE has stated its commitment to enable Carnegie Mellon University to return its normalcy and shed its nickname Constant Maintenance Underway.

NEED HELP ON FINALS?
Looks like you need a subtle way to cheat!
High-end imaging technology to secretly spy on classmate's test answers while maintaining a low profile

Is your GPA below 3.0?
Did you fail your last midterm?
Will it take a miracle to pull your grades out of the gutter?

You don't need a miracle.

You always have another option.

ENLIST NOW!

Rejected Headlines #14

- Rope and stool salesmen loitering outside particularly difficult finals
- Due to overenrollment, CMU to add 4 AM exam slots
- Person who said "Wow, that was easy" after exam stoned to death
- Entropy sold out on caffeneited drinks, caffeine tablets, coffee-flavored chocolate, and methamphetamine
- CMU students sign up for isolation experiments to find quiet study spots
- CIT student's "new kicks" deemed "too swag" by the administration
- \bullet In shocking news, 112 grading party turns into a free-for-all as TAs fight for last slices of cold pizza
- Biology department recommends students looking for finals reprieve engineer another pandemic, extra credit offered
- Homeless Ph.D. student holds fence for record 5 years, fails quals
- Can President Joe Biden please presidentially pardon my AIV?
- Prosecutor agrees to downgrade Capital Grains to 1st Degree Grains
- 3D Printer Crushed by Anvil, Now Regular Printer
- Dedicated Gender Studies student finds clitoris, looses track of penis

All this and more, not in this issue!

Survey Says!

Fill this out so we can convince higher Management we're worth funding with your tax dollars, and other things.

So you're on a couple waitlists

Gilgamesh Ichthyomorphosis Currently waitlisted for ¾ classes

This past week CMU students were given the opportunity to register for spring semester classes. Due to over-enrollment this year some poor sops (me) were given 9:30 pm registration times. By noon, 15-122 already had a 370-person waitlist, which is fine, it's only a pre-req to every single course I need. Despair set in as students with unfortunate registration times (me) panicked about getting graduation requirements. However, there need not be panic. There are many benefits to being on the waitlist, but it's fine as it is.

First, if you're stressing about taking concepts and 15-122 in the same semester, or planning on registering for whatever weedout course your major requires, don't worry, you won't have to do these hard courses because you can't get in. You can spend this new found free time making fun of your friends that have to take hard courses (absolute suckers). You don't even have to take easy core courses at 8:00 am because the people with 3:00 pm registration times took them. If you were planning on doing a double major, that burden is lifted off of your shoulders because no way are you ever getting off of the waitlist for any of the courses you need for that second major.

Second, as finals week rapidly approaches, there is no solace in the fact that we have to do this all again in the spring. However, there's nothing to worry about! Only being registered for one course means just the one final. I get to spend the last half of finals week laughing at you nerds. Bonus: if you just drop out you never have to take finals again, and then other people (me) can get off of waitlists.

Third, you can finally achieve a healthy sleep schedule. CMU students are known to spend 80-plus hours a week doing schoolwork. If you couldn't get the courses you need next semester, fear not, you will have plenty of time to fix your ruined sleep schedule. You can finally go to sleep before 3:00 am. No more late night trips to Scotty's to buy a caseload of Celisus for your third all-nighter in a row. You can sleep soundly with the anxiety of getting employed at [insert quant firm here] without taking 15-210.

Fourth, you can finally call your mom, with no courses to occupy your schedule you definitely have time to call her. I know you're addicted to your phone, so use it to call her. Why are you still reading this? Go call your mother, she misses you. It's not like you're going to get off the waitlist in the 30 minutes you spend talking to her.

Our Discord!

Interested in causing a commotion? Ready for chaos and stupidity? You won't find it here.

Can you solve this puzzle? Fill in the blanks and return to the HUB to win a secret prize!

Carnegie Mellon University University Registrar's Office Complete this form if you intend to leave Carnegie Mellon with no intention to ratum. Read the policy on the following pages arrior to completing this form. Prior to withdrawal, you must contact your academic advisor. Withdrawal may jeopardize your financial aid status, contact The HUB for details. Federal law mandates students on F1 or 31 Visa contact the Office of International Education prior to withdrawal.	University Registrar's Office Phone: 412-268-8186 CMURegistrar@andrew.cmu.edu www.cmu.edu/hub
STUDENT INFORMATION Student Andrew ID: Student Name: Last/Family, First and/or Preferred, MI Permanent Address: Street Address/PO Box, City, State, Zip, Country (if not US)
WITHDRAWAL INFORMATION Student's Reasons for Withdrawal (optional):
DEPARTMENT INFORMATION & SIGNATURES Date Student Began Withdrawal Procedure (mm/dd/yyyy): W Advisor: Signature:	Grade(s) Assigned? Yes No
DEAN OF STUDENT AFFAIRS Comments/Requirements: Dean of Student Affairs: Print Name Signature: Print Name	Date:mm/dd/yyyy
OFFICE USE ONLY Semester Units Dropped New Enrollment Status Adjusted Tuition	on Initials/Date withdrawal 6/19

Friday, 12/6, 7pm in DHA331: KGB makes liquid nitrogen ice cream. Mention in cmukgb.org/discord ASAP if you wanna come!

Saturday, 12/7, $5\mathrm{pm}$ in DH1117: Readme churns out one last issue for the semester

Sunday, 12/8, 5pm in front of Warner Hall: SCREEEEEEEEEAAAAAAAAAAAA

Monday, 12/9, 5pm in 5th Ave Commons: KGB Final Exam (worth 70% of your grade)

Wednesday, 12/11, 5pm at UC Black Chairs: Geek Eat KGB Dinner!

Saturday, 12/14, 5pm in DH1117: Readme liquidates all of its Monday, 12/16, 1pm in Stever basement (cmukgb.org/kage): Kage cleaning!

Events On Campus